

International Comparisons of Taxation in Developing Countries

2020

Keio University
Faculty of Business and Commerce

International Comparisons of Taxation in Developing Countries 2020

This study tries to compare economic environments, fiscal positions, tax systems, tax administration and prospects in tax reform in selected developing countries, namely, Bhutan, Malaysia, Myanmar and Vietnam.

In so doing, we can identify common needs in tax reform such as tax-bare broadening, simplifying tax schedule, neutralizing tax burden, efficiency and equity improving.

At the same time, country-specific issues vary from country to country. They reflect different stages of development in respective countries.

Members of this study consists of

Yukinobu Kitamura	Keio University, Faculty of Business and Commerce
Pema Jamtsho	Keio University, Graduate Student
Ahmad Faiz Bin Azimi	Keio University, Graduate Student
May Sabai Phyu Aung	Keio University, Graduate Student
Linh Pham Yen	Keio University, Graduate Student

Contents

Introduction

---

1	Bhutan	1
	Pema Jamtsho
2	Malaysia	41
	Ahmad Faiz Bin Azimi
3	Myanmar	89
	May Sabai Phyu Aung
4	Vietnam	133
	Linh Pham Yen

Introduction

This study tries to compare economic environments, technical assistance in fiscal policy and tax administration in selected developing countries; Bhutan, Malaysia, Myanmar and Vietnam.

Individual country chapter shares basically the same organizational framework.

- I. Introduction
- II. Macroeconomic Activity
  - II. 1 International Environment
  - II. 2 Domestic Environment
  - II. 3 Fiscal Position
- III. Tax System
- IV. Country-Specific Issues
- V. Summary and Conclusion

In so doing, we can compare countries on the same issues, identify similarities and differences and highlight country-specific issues.

Individual country chapter is written by a tax expert of respective country. It contains valuable statistical and policy information. Individual chapters, then, are compiled and edited by Yukinobu Kitamura.