Protection of Personal Information at Keio University

The International Center at Keio University is committed to the protection and appropriate use of personal information based on Keio University's "Basic Policy Concerning Protection of Personal Information" and "Rules for Protection of Personal Information." Personal information provided for scholarship applications and processes, including Scholarship Applicant Registration, shall be used only for screening and selecting scholarship recipients, verifying the qualifications of scholarship recipients, managing scholarship payments and refunds, and verifying the agreements between scholarship recipients and the sponsoring organizations (Keio University, Japanese Government [Monbukagakusho], JASSO, and other awarding organizations). Within a scope that is appropriate for achieving the above purposes, the International Center may disclose personal information about recommended students to sponsors, financial institutions, and other third parties when necessary. However, personal information shall not be used for any other purposes.

< For undergraduate and graduate international students considering scholarships >

The main purpose of all scholarships is to assist highly talented students who excel academically and who are of excellent character but have difficulties continuing their studies due to financial reasons.

This guidebook outlines scholarships for privately-financed international students at the undergraduate and graduate level whose status of residence in Japan is “Student”. International Students whose status of residence is “Permanent resident,” “Special Permanent resident,” “Long-term resident,” “Dependent,” or “Child or spouse of Japanese national (permanent resident)” are outlined in the Keio University Scholarship Information (Undergraduate/Graduate Students) guidebook in which some scholarships for international students are also included.

Broadly speaking, scholarships are offered by Keio University, the Japanese Government (Monbukagakusho) and other public entities such as Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO), and scholarship organizations including private companies and scholarship foundations. Students may apply through the recommendation of the university or directly to the awarding organizations.

The breakdown of figures of international students who received scholarships in the 2021 academic year is shown in the following pages.

For scholarships from companies and foundations that require the recommendation of the awarding organizations or the university, applicants must go through an internal screening process within Keio University before they undergo evaluation by the companies or foundations. Please note that passing the internal screening process does not mean that the applicant has been selected for the scholarship. Often, a certain level of Japanese proficiency to understand university courses and undergo interviews is required to fill out application documents and go through screening interviews for scholarships offered by companies and foundations. Please make sure to check the required level of Japanese proficiency before selecting scholarships for which you wish to apply.

In addition, you will be disqualified from eligibility to receive payments for many scholarships if you study or intern outside Japan during the period you are in receipt of the scholarship. Please be aware that you should take steps to confirm eligibility criteria when applying for scholarships if you are considering studying or interning abroad.

Japanese Language Program (JLP) Students

Scholarships for students of the Japanese Language Program (JLP) will be announced separately. Please note that the scholarship applications and screening methods for JLP scholarships differ from those outlined in this guidebook.

<How to Apply for Scholarships>

There are two types of scholarships at Keio University:

- 1) "direct application" scholarships in which students themselves can apply directly to the awarding organization
- 2) the "university application" and "university recommendation" scholarships in which the scholarship organizations send the university a request to post scholarship information.

Additionally, Keio University offers its own scholarships. All students are responsible for confirming the necessary documents and submitting those documents on their own. The application must be submitted through the Google Form specific to your campus. You must submit the application yourself. Applications by proxy or by post or email are not accepted.

1) Direct Application (Students apply directly to the awarding organization)

Direct application refers to the application process for scholarships in which students gather all of the required documents and apply directly to the scholarship organizations themselves. Information about direct application scholarships is posted on the "Scholarships Now Available" page of the International Center website. Generally, application guidelines and pamphlets will be made available on the International Center website or the website of the awarding organization, though some may be distributed at the office in charge of scholarships on your campus.

2) University Application and University Recommendation (Students apply through the university)

University application refers to the application process for scholarships in which students gather all required documents themselves and submit them to Keio University. Keio University will send all required documents to the awarding organization. This type of application does not require any internal screening.

University recommendation refers to the application process in which students apply for the scholarship through Keio University such as Scholarships provided by Keio University / Japanese Government (Monbukagakusho: MEXT) Scholarship / Monbukagakusho Honors Scholarship for Privately Financed International Students/Private Foundation Scholarships.

To apply for these scholarships (2), the following is an outline of the application procedures.

※Please check the following page for "Scholarship Applicant Registration".

< Scholarship Applicant Registration (Important!) >

Scholarship Application Registration must be completed for students who wish to apply for university application scholarships, university recommendation scholarships, or scholarships for privately financed international students that Keio University provides. This registration is conducted at the beginning of each semester, twice a year in April and September. Information concerning scholarship applicant registration and submitting the Scholarship Application Registration will be posted on the International Center website at the end of each semester (at the end of January and end of July before vacation periods begin). Please make sure to submit the prescribed Scholarship Application Registration within the designated registration period to the International Center.

Please note that students are unable to apply for scholarships if they fail to complete this registration during the prescribed period. The schedule for the 2022 Academic Year Scholarship Application Registration is listed below.

Navigation: HOME > To Keio > Scholarships > Scholarships Now Available

Scholarship announcements, application forms, and application guidelines will be posted in the "Scholarships Now Available" page on the International Center's website as soon as Keio receives a request for candidates from the awarding organization. Please make your decision on whether to apply after carefully reading through the application guidelines from the awarding organization to confirm the application requirements and scholarship provisions. Choose the scholarships for which you wish to apply and submit the application form(s) to the Google Form of the appropriate office on your campus. (Some scholarships may require documents in addition to the application forms. Information about other required documents will be included in the scholarship announcements and on the application forms.)

Some scholarships, including scholarships offered by Keio University and other organizations, are handled by the Student Affairs Center, so please check the Student Website of your campus. If you have any inquiry, please contact the scholarship section at your campus listed below.

<Considerations Concerning Application>

Please be aware of the following when applying for scholarships.

1. You can simultaneously apply to several university recommendation scholarships.
2. Even after officially selected to receive a Keio University recommendation to the awarding organization, you can still apply to other scholarships which allows other scholarships to be combined if the scholarship organization that you are being recommended allows you simultaneous receipt of other scholarship. However, the scholarship application and receipt status will be taken into account during the internal selection process.
3. International students who are currently receiving scholarships and who are determined to continue to receive scholarships in the following fiscal year cannot apply for scholarships from other organizations that do not allow simultaneous scholarships. Please read the application guidelines carefully.
4. Once officially selected to receive a university recommendation to the awarding organization, you will not be recommended to other scholarships which do not allow to combine with other scholarships.
5. If you are selected to receive both a university recommendation scholarship and a direct application scholarship, yet are not allowed to receive both simultaneously, you must give priority to the university recommendation scholarship. Students must take responsibility and withdraw from the direct application scholarship themselves.
6. Once you have been selected as a nominee of university recommendation scholarship, you cannot withdraw. Please carefully evaluate your financial need when you consider applying for scholarships with smaller award amounts.
7. The university will not disclose the progress of the selection process or reasons for selection.
8. If an applicant has provided any false or misleading information, their application will be revoked.
9. If the student is selected but is deemed unsuitable for the scholarship, their scholarship may be revoked. In this case, the recipient must return a portion or the full amount of the scholarship.
10. There are some scholarships for which students with outstanding tuition fees cannot apply to.
11. If you decide to receive a direct application scholarship, please make sure to inform the appropriate office on your campus.

Scholarship Information

Note: scholarship information in this guidebook

Scholarship applications open around September of the previous academic year, and are posted intensively from October to January and from the latter half of March to April. The information about applications and results in this guidebook are from the 2021 academic year. The year of Eligibility is not the student's study year at the time of application, but their study year at the start of scholarship payment. For example, in the case of recruitment in October 2021, if a scholarship that starts payments from April 2022 is intended for third-year undergraduate students, it means not third-year students in October 2021 at the time of recruitment, but those who are in their third year in April 2022, are eligible to apply. In addition, recruitment period and details are subject to change due to the situation of the scholarship providers. Use the information in this guidebook as a reference, and if you plan to apply for any scholarships, make sure to check the International Center website regularly and read the application guidelines for each scholarship you are interested in for details before applying.

Scholarship recruitment information will be posted on the International Center website as soon as it arrives at the university. We cannot answer individual questions regarding the recruitment period and schedule. Please note that the recruitment period may be short and tight.
