Course Description/Objectives/Teaching Method/Intended Learning Outcome:

Whatever language we use, how we speak and write to others will reveal many aspects of ourselves, such as what we are, how we see a situation we are in, and how we treat others, etc. In this course, you will observe and discuss various aspects of Japanese language usage in relation to culture and society. By doing this in comparison to language usage seen in different cultures and societies and writing a final paper on one phenomenon describing Japanese language usage, you will explore what Japanese people living in this contemporary society are actually doing through their communicative practice.

Lecturer's Comments to Students:

- This course is designed both for international students and for local students. You will be expected to actively exchange opinions and views with your classmates. The number of students for this course is limited to 20.
- Relatively high proficiency (above intermediate level (e.g. above N2)) in Japanese would be required for discussing covered issues.
- This course will be offered on an on-demand basis, but live-streaming sessions will be held via Zoom for several classes. Further details of the course organization will be explained in the first session.
- The first session will provide an on-demand video for introducing the entire course structure, but a zoom meeting will also be held for the students and the lecturer to get to know each other better. To attend the meeting, please make sure that you view the video in advance. The meeting will start at 11:30 (JST), and the zoom link will be available on Canvas LMS before the first session.
- Those who wish to take this course are required not only to register the course via Academic Affairs Web System but also to fill out a questionnaire by 16:45 on September 29th (JST), by logging in Google Forms with their Keio accounts and using the link: <https://forms.gle/ybvCsetxeMKqRXGL6>

The selection will be made based on the information provided to the instructor through the questionnaire.
